ELDS Math, Pre-K (Session 1 of 2)

Alexis Kirk

Early Learning & School Readiness
Consultant, Region 14 SST
Participant Limit: 25

This course encompasses the mathematical concepts and skills that children develop during the birth-to-five-year period, including children’s developing understanding of number and quantity, number relationships, and basic algebraic concepts. It also addresses children’s developing knowledge of key attributes of objects, including size and shape, and the way objects fit, are positioned, and move in space. Please note: Session 2 is from 12:30 p.m. – 3:30 p.m.

ELDS Science, Pre-K (Session 1 of 2)

Linda Mead

Early Learning & School Readiness
Participant Limit: 25

This course focuses on children’s curiosity to explore and learn about their environment. It includes behaviors of exploration and discovery, and fundamental conceptual development such as problem solving and cause and effect. These early behaviors develop into increasingly systematic inquiry skills, and the ability to observe, investigate and communicate about the natural environment, living things, and objects and materials. Please note: Session 2 is from 12:30 p.m. – 3:30 p.m.

Music, Movement and More

Becky Storer, M.Ed.

Associate Professor, Southern State
Community College; Early Care &
Education Consultant Trainer, COAD
Participant Limit: 16

Through discussion, singing, moving, and group activities, participants will gain a better understanding of the importance of music and movement in the daily lives of children. In addition, participants will learn a variety of songs, fingerplays, chants, and movement activities that they can share with children in either a classroom or home environment.

ELDS Module Level 2: Cognition and General Knowledge, Birth to 36 Months (Session 1 of 2)

Angela Kisor

COAD Consultant

Participant Limit: 25

Introduction to cognitive development and learning during the infant/toddler stages, birth to 36 months of age, and aligned to the Early Learning and Development Standards in Cognition and General Knowledge Domain. This level II training is for direct service early childhood teachers and professionals to introduce and explore the ELDS content, and offer teaching strategies for supporting development in the Cognition and General Knowledge domain. It includes the use of the curriculum planning cycle.

Incorporating Technology in Everyday Activities (Session 1 of 2)

Kristin Watson

COAD Consultant

Participant Limit: 25

There are four training goals for this module which tie to the topics that will be addressed. The first goal addresses your basic knowledge of technology terms so that you are comfortable with the terms that are being used in this training. The second goal looks at where and how technology can be integrated into the classroom. You will then be asked to look at how you can be intentional as you incorporate technology to support the children's' learning. Through this training you will also evaluate technology using research-based criteria. You will be asked to download the Participant Handbook and print it out. You will use it to reflect on your own practice related to technology, to explore standards and position statements and to make recommendations for the future.

Project Wild

Barb Cook

Adjunct Instructor, Southern State Community College

Participant Limit: 20

This is a wonderful science program which focuses on wildlife and conservation of natural resources. Participants will receive a handbook filled with lessons specifically for early childhood educators. Lessons are aligned with NAEYC standards and can be used to supplement existing curriculum or as a stand-alone program for science.

Awesome Art Activities for Preschool Children

Barb Cook
Adjunct Instructor, Southern State
Community College
Participant Limit: 20

Children love to create visual art! How many times has a child made a picture and given it to a parent or teacher showing great pride in the picture which was created? Sometimes, though, teachers struggle to connect the visual arts to the standards. This session will give teachers ideas for fun arts activities. We will be looking for correlations between activities and the standards.

Communicable Disease Recognition & Prevention (Session 1 of 2)

Sharon Fugate, RN
Instructor, Southern State Community College

Best Practice: Sensory, Art & Science, Infant/Toddler

Debbie Anderson
COAD
Participant Limit: 25

Offering sensory, creative arts and science experiences to infants and toddlers are important for their overall development, learning and enjoyment. Determining what types of experiences are safe, appropriate and fun and the best ways to use them with infants and toddlers can be a difficult decision. Participants will review how sensory, creative arts and science experiences benefit young children, explore a variety of activities, and identify the care teacher's role through the use of case scenarios, group activities and discussions.

Be an Eco-Healthy Early Care and Education Program

Julie Burchett
Participant Limit: 25

Children and adults are exposed to environmental toxins everyday, including time spent in early care and education programs. These toxins impact health and development. What are these toxins and how can exposure to them be reduced? Participants will explore the most common environmental concerns, including toxins present in play and learning materials, furniture, food and the air we breathe. Strategies to reduce exposure will be highlighted. Participants will also learn how to earn an Eco-Healthy Child Care Endorsement.

12:30 p.m. – 2:00 p.m.

Create the Ask, Get Results: Funding Opportunities

Julie Burchett
Participant Limit: 25

Programs are continually seeking ways to add value to their programs without breaking the budget. This training will provide an overview of funding opportunities through local, corporate and foundation funding streams. Also, providers will learn how to identify their needs in a way that funding streams are likely to provide support and explore how to request funds and services. Additionally, this training will highlight other community resources to enhance child care program operations.

12:30 p.m. – 3:00 p.m.

Making the Most of Routines, Infant/Toddler

Debbie Anderson
Participant Limit: 25

Through lecture, individual activities, small group activities and reflection on current practices, participants will understand how the routines are the curriculum in an infant toddler setting. They will also relate the learning that takes place in routines to the Ohio Early Learning Development Standards. The importance of culture in routines will be examined. The participants will also better understand routines from an infant's perspective through various activities.

12:30 p.m. – 3:30 p.m.
